CATHOLIC Q & A - ALL SOULS

Question: November is called the month of All Souls, and November 2nd is the Commemoration of All the Faithful Departed. Can you tell us more about this feast and the remembrances of this month?

Answer: November 2nd, the Commemoration of All the Faithful Departed, dovetails with November 1st, the feast of All Saints. The saints, our models of Christian living, are one with God in heaven. All the faithful departed are those who have died with hope and trust in a loving God who calls us to greater growth and development, even beyond death. This growth and development occurs in a state of being that we have traditionally called purgatory. While the Western Church has emphasized the cleansing and purifying nature of purgatory, the Eastern Orthodox Church has emphasized the growth and development aspect of it. Today, belief in purgatory allows one who has died in Christ to continue growing and developing before meeting God face to face. God continually invites communion with these loved ones, but some feel the need to continue growing and developing before entering into full communion with God.

These feasts vividly remind us of the rich reality known as the communion of saints. This belief stresses the strong affirmation that the church is always one in Christ. Death does not sever any of the bonds that unite us in Christ. That is why it is a fitting practice to pray for the dead and to ask them to pray for us. Just as we do that for each other when we are alive, so, too, do we continue that bond and concern for each other even beyond death. ©LPi

OLA SCHOOL THEME FOR 2026-2027: SUPERPOWERED BY FAITH

Every year we have a school theme to help guide students into the faith and to build a foundation that they can lean on as they develop socially, mentally, and spiritually. This year we are exploring how the Holy Spirit empowers us to become more than we thought we could ever be – giving us courage when we are afraid, strength when things are difficult, wisdom when we are uncertain, and the grace to love and serve others. We'll focus on how we can empower others through servant leadership with the help of our friends, our family, our community, and our superhero Saints who have gone before us. We've adopted Patron Saints in each class to provide examples of how we might be inspired for our own faith journey.

One way that we can help inspire and lead is by attending Mass with our community of friends and family. Sunday Mass is our celebration of the Resurrection where we are able to share in the sacrifice that unites us all. Our "brick" program was created to incentivize and build the mental and physical discipline of this – encouraging our children to attend Mass weekly. You'll see our new "brick" in the form of a battery, which is reflective of a large battery superpowering our faith and contributing to the greater power of the universality of our parish community here at OLA.

-Noel Bati, OLA Parish Finance Council Member and OLA School Mission Effectiveness Committee Member

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

Following up on the excellent presentation by Rich Strawn and Casey Oliver on AI (artificial intelligence), I thought it might be useful to share a few thoughts. At Priest's Study Days recently, the topic of Artificial Intelligence was very well presented. Many aspects and concerns were discussed, but here I draw attention to the special problem of AI emotional dependency.

AI is becoming more than a search engine for people. It can seek to serve as a friend or someone who gives advice, provides guidance on relationships, morality, grief, spirituality, finances, job choices, and even what life is all about. A great problem is how people are forming intimate relationships with AI. Many young and not so young people connect with it in ways that can shape trust, opinions, how we see the world, interaction with others, emotional attachment, behavior, and indeed who we are as a person. AI is available 24 hours, 7 days a week and never gets annoyed with a conversation nor gives negative feedback appearing non-judgmental. It can easily give the impression that it understands us in a way we may not experience with human beings. It can be easy to think that people do not care whereas AI is ever available, always complimentary and therefore attractive. Indeed, many people reach out to AI about what they should believe and do in their lives. Sadly, one reason people turn to AI is that they do not know who else to contact or trust. Many have not spoken to a priest or other leader, so they go to AI for counsel or ideas. AI can purport to provide moral, existential and spiritual authority, even though its values are largely determined by private companies with various agendas, not always in our best interest.

As Catholics we certainly need to be concerned about AI in areas that should be occupied by parents, teachers, priests and spiritual directors. While our young people's spiritual questions can show their need for an encounter with God and assistance with the purpose of life, there are also concerns about unhealthy forms of emotional dependency on AI. These can cause them to miss involvement with trusted teachers and spiritual guides. One particular concern is where AI systems flatter or excessively affirm users. Chatbot by being overly agreeable is not like human friends who not only care for us but will also differ from us and appropriately provide an opposing view when needed.

Fortunately, Pope Leo XIV in his recent letter "Magnificent Humanity" greatly helps the world deal with possible benefits of AI while calling us to the many concerns it raises. He urges us to build forms of cooperation and cultivate a culture of shared responsibility. Also, Bishops throughout the world and our United States Bishops seek to identify ways the Church can contribute to the moral foundation of AI proposing models and steps companies can take to protect against misuse of their inventions so as to guarantee human oversight of the technology. The Church brings 2000 years of reflection on human dignity, work, relationships, and truth to this conversation. Bishop Michael Olsen said recently, "We will listen to Silicon Valley, but we will not outsource our understanding of the human person to it." Spiritual matters must always remain a tool in human hands. All spiritual work and decisions about people such as hiring, discipline, and who receives help must always be made by people. AI can assist human judgment, but it must never replace it.

There is some worry that AI may have hurt the elderly and people with disability through scams, children through "fake" relationships with Chatbot and students who are handing off the very work that forms their minds and critical thinking skills to it. This is a great problem as we give away our God given creativity to a machine and lose our sacred gift. It already has a profound impact on many aspects of our lives and this will most likely increase in the coming years. Catholics have a deep responsibility to protect the dignity of the human person. As AI takes root and transforms life around us, it is important to maintain constructive and ongoing dialogues with various organizations, academic centers, and other stakeholders across the United States, but we must always insist that AI serve human dignity and the common good as presented in Priest Study days. Special assistance must be given to church leaders, understanding both the opportunities and the risks posed by AI in areas such as education, communications, employment, healthcare, evangelization, governance, and the protection of children and vulnerable persons.

Please God, Pope Leo's encyclical will guide us as we face inevitable questions about what it means to be human and navigate with AI. If used properly, it can be very advantageous like the internet, but we must be careful. We always know we are created in the image and likeness of God as we benefit from technology in appropriate ways, but never allow it to control or organize our lives. - Fr. Michael Kiernan
